REPORTING PRACTICE SUMMARY – 2024

Portugal's reporting practice changed in 2024.

Portugal reported Numbers and Values of major conventional arms and light weapons exports but did not specify if they were Actual or Authorized, as opposed to 2023, when it reported Actual Numbers and Values for these categories. In 2024, Portugal reported Actual Numbers of small arms exports, unlike the previous year, when it reported Actual Numbers and some Values of small arms exports.

Portugal reported Numbers and Values of major conventional arms and light weapons imports but did not specify if they were Actual or Authorized. Portugal reported Actual Numbers of small arms imports, as opposed to 2023, when it reported Actual Numbers and some Values.

GOOD PRACTICES

Portugal consistently disaggregated all transfers by weapon category, sub-category and trading partner.

Portugal reported both numbers and values for transfers of major conventional arms and imports of light weapons.

Portugal provided descriptions for all reported transfers of major conventional arms, as well as for imports of light weapons. It also provided comments for exports of major conventional arms.

ROOM FOR IMPROVEMENT

Portugal did not consistently tick the relevant box to indicate whether the transfer in question was authorized or actual.

Portugal could indicate clearly there were no reported exports or imports in specific categories and sub-categories of arms, rather than leaving relevant sections of the reporting template blank.

Portugal could provide descriptions and comments for all reported transfers.
